KEENE, N.H. (AP) — Escalating his bare-knuckles campaign, President Ford is accusing challenger Ronald Reagan of advocating "backdoor socialism" and ducking fights he may not win. Ford on Thursday began his final campaign swing through New Hampshire, where voters cast their ballots in the nation's first presidential primary of the year next Tuesday.

Ford was to travel to Dover, N.H. today for a speech repeating his plans overhauling the nation's intelligence agencies.

In Keene, Ford said Reagan had proposed investing part of the Social Security trust fund in the stock market. Fielding questions at a "public forum"

But Reagan aides say the former California governor does not advocate investing Social Security funds. They say Reagan merely noted that some eonomists, whom he did not identify, have suggested the funds could be "invested in the industrial might of America." Ford told the gym crowd that Reagan is trying to capitalize on ideas that are "easy to say" but more difficult to translate into action.

As for claims the administration worked to boost congressional salaries at the expense of federal workers, Ford snapped: "There was no conniving and any accusation to that effect is completely without fact or foundation."

Meanwhile, there were these political developments Thursday:

-Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said he expects to finish "first or second, maybe first" in New Hampshire's Democratic primary. He continued to face questions over his past comments about former Georgia Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox.

-Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris said in Concord that his canvassers show him among the top three candidates in the state's Democratic race. He did not name the other two candidates but said if he did not finish at least third "it would be a real

-The New Englander magazine said a poll of executives of the region's top 150 industrial and service firms showed Ford and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., as the likely opponents in the November general election. Humphrey is not an announced candidate.

-A Democratic write-in campaign emerged for former Texas Gov. John B. Connally with the distribution of an advertising insert Thursday in New Hampshire's daily newspapers. The insert urged voters to write in Connally, a Democrat-turned-Republican, on the Democratic ballot.

-Humphrey was in Northampton, Mass., where he said again he might accept a presidential draft, but "the possibilities are not very strong." He added, "I am not a candidate.

-Rep. Morris Udall said in Boston that if elected president he would "run some risks" to unilaterally stop constructing nuclear weapons. "I'd be prepared to say to the Soviets, 'Look, we're stopping construction at 8,000. That's enough," the Arizona Democrat said in a speech to about 1,000 persons. *****************

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market, still buoyed by the enthusiasm of Thursday's rally in which a new volume record was set, continued to steam upward today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed more than four points minutes after the opening. Gainers held a 7 to 2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although the prime mover in Friday's rally was the sheer momentum of the previous day's advice, traders received some relatively favorable economic news from Washington as the market opened.

The Labor Department reported that consumer prices increased four-tenths of a per cent in January, compared with a five-tenths of a per cent climb in December. The report said retail food prices declined in January for the first time in five months.

Among the early blue chip leaders, U.S. Steel rose a point to 831/8, International Paper gained 11/4 to 77, and Eastman Kodak was ahead 17/8 to 1111/4.

Samplings from the stream

For anyone interested in keeping abreast of our changing society, it is a fascinating frustration to browse through the book reviews. There is just too much to cope with, an unending freshet of new works political biographies, poetry, social analysis, philosophy, books on science; on and

The only defense is selectivity. That, of course, is where the reviews come in. Though one cannot rely on them wholly, they do provide some idea of what might be worth dipping

This is the start of the weeding-out process. The next step is to lay hands on those books that survive the initial test, and do some sampling. Yet at current prices, buying even a fraction of what attracts one may be prohibitive. What to do, then?

We have a friend who solves the problem neatly. He haunts the newbook shelf at the nearest library, dipping into some items on the spot, taking others home for a longer look Most of them, even those he reads through, do not strike him as books he wants to own.

Of those that do qualify, he makes a list - and buys what he can afford. Slowly his library accumulates. His claim is that, for all the flood of new stuff, he has yet to buy a book he wouldn't care to read again. It works for him. How well it will work for others depends on their sales resistance

The three GE specialists, Dale G. Bridenbaugh, Gregory C. Minor and Richard B. Hubbard, have been called to testify before the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Another witness will be Robert Pollard who resigned from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for the same reasons. The three Californians will work for the initiative proposal on the California June primary ballot that could eventually lead to the prohibition of nuclear reactors in that state.

'My reason for leaving is a deep conviction that nuclear reactors and nuclear weapons now present serious danger to the future of all life on this planet." Minor, manager for advanced controls and administration, said in his letter of resignation.

In light of the fantastic development of nuclear power plants this looks a bit like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen. Currently 56 nuclear power plants are operating and 69 are under construction. The size of the investment can be guaged by the average cost of such a plant which is between $600 million and $1 billion.

By 1985, it is estimated that there will be from 150 to 189 plants in operation, producing about 18 per cent of the total electrical energy consumed in this

Thus far only one nuclear power plant has suffered major damage. By a careless accident, a fire was set off a year ago in the Brown's Ferry plant of the Tennessee Valley Authority at Decatur, Ala., the largest nuclear complex in the world. Rehabilitation is being completed and, according to TVA, Brown's Ferry will be in operation by next month. When TVA's nuclear program is completed in 1982 the authority will have seven plants powered by nuclear reactors.

The fact that no radioactive material was released in the Brown's Ferry fire is taken by specialists at the Nuclear Regulatory Agency as proof that present safeguards are adequate.

But the Brown's Ferry fire was cited by the GE executives who resigned as one reason for their action. They listed. too, both the nuclear explosion set off by India with plutonium that had been supplied by Canada for peaceful purposes and the American decision to sell reactors to Egypt and Israel.

'The Brown's Ferry incident showed human fallacy," Hubbard said. "I have been involved in making a lot of field fixes in reactors and I have developed a strong feeling that we don't really know what is going on inside a reactor.

The rationalization for foreign sales by top executives and by officials of the Regulatory Agency is that if the United States were to turn down such sales other countries, notably France, would step in. Nuclear power is spreading around the world with remarkable rapidity. Recently West Germany sold Brazil a complete nuclear fuel cycle. According to a recent government report, GE is the world's largest manufacturer of nuclear equipment, having supplied 27 of the 99 reactors reportedly operating around the world as of late 1974. The dispute over the use of nuclear power is a contest in which the environmentalists have steadily lost out. But with three new recruits with intimate knowledge, their case will be markedly strengthened.

Rhodes sets trade trip

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - The preliminary agenda for the Ohio European Trade Mission from March 6 through 20 was announced Thursday by the state development department.

"The purpose of the mission, led by Gov. James A. Rhodes, will be to promote the sale of Ohio manufactured and agricultural products abroad, attract job-producing industries and businesses to Ohio, and encourage the use of Ohio ports and transportation facilities," said the Department of Economic and Community Develop-

Rhodes will open the Ohio international trade office in Brussels on March 8; meet with Leonard K. Firestone, ambassador to Belgium; travel to Dusseldorf, West Germany, for two days of individual and group business meetings, and meet with West German business leaders and government officials in Bonn. Towards the end of the mission, participants will split into several small groups to travel independently to cities in France, Sweden, the Netherlands and Italy.

Mission members will complete the visit in London for two days of business appointments before returning to Co-

State solons push adjournment

By ROBERT E. MILLER

Associated Press Writer COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio's 1975 legislative session may be brought to an end much sooner than the June 1 target date leaders set initially. A mid-April adjournment date has been mentioned

Democratic majority leaders say privately they are frustrated over the political standoff with Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, whom they feel is using the legislature as a scapegoat for his administration's own failures.

Otherwise, House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said most of the 11th General Assembly's major accomplishments-record outlays for education without new taxes among them-were achieved in the first year of the legislative biennium.

Riffe and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, apparently have agreed that two remaining items-utility rate law revision and some form of future property tax relief-must be finished before the lawmakers go home.

One of the measures has passed each

Senate hearings are expected to get under way in the House next week on a controversial measure, approved by the Senate, that repeals Ohio's 64-yearold utility rate-making formula and replaces it with one being billed by sponsors as offering greater protection to utility consumers.

At the same time, the Senate will begin taking a close look at a complicated House measure that seeks to prevent inflation-caused increases in the tax bills of Ohio's homeowners.

Otherwise, numerous bills of lesser impact are pending at various stages, but with few possible exceptions are expendable at least for this year in the minds of legislative leaders. The almost daily clash with Rhodes centers largely around the 66-year-old governor's budget cuts and an almost continuous parade of his department heads to the legislature asking for more Both parties are saddled by promises to voters of no new or additional taxes, made more ominous when voters rejected Rhodes' economic ballot package last year—including his call for hikes in the sales and gasoline taxes by overwhelming margins.

Rhodes claims Democrats underfunded the state's 1975-77 budget by more than $100 million, which he compensated for with his order for a two per cent, across-the-board spending cut by his executive departments.

Aides to the governor have insisted that the heads of departments have a right to compete in the legislature for whatever funds are available or might become available due to increased state revenues, some of which are exceeding original estimates.

Does she say she has a headache? No. She merely starts a monologue with something like, "If you hadn't bought that stupid oil stock, we could have gone on a vacation this year." (I think you get the idea, Abby.)

Naturally, this line of chatter turns me off like a $1.98 alarm clock, and I go back to my room, feeling rejected and saying to myself, "I'm going to leave that woman." But I never do, and then I get to thinking maybe next time she'll forget these things and put out the fire in the proper manner.

DEAR NEEDS: You're right. Yours IS a sad case for which there is no solution. But I'll print it anyway because misery loves company and it may comfort the miserable to know they are not alone.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are getting a divorce. We have a 2-monthold baby. When our baby was 3 weeks old, I caught my husband with another woman

To teach him a lesson I filed for a divorce, thinking it would make him regret what he had done and he would beg me to take him back. Well, it didn't work, so now I am getting a divorce from a husband I am still in love with and don't want to lose.

Maybe if you print this it will make people think twice before they file for a divorce they don't want. Sign me. FOOLISH IN FLORIDA

DEAR FOOLISH: You are even more foolish if you don't get in touch with your husband immediately and tell him exactly how you feel. It may not be too late to pick up the pieces. It's worth a try

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and homemaker who enjoys entertaining, and I am told I do it well. We recently entertained another couple in our home for dinner, and I prepared a delicious gourmet meal. (The man works with my husband.)

Before they left, the wife said, "I don't knock myself out cooking for company anymore, but I'd be glad to drive you uptown for lunch some day.'

Abby, is that kind of invitation proper reciprocation for a dinner such as mine? My husband and I are interested in these people as a couple. It was not my intention to socialize at lunch with this lady alone.

How should this be handled tactfully if she invites me to lunch "uptown

DEAR IN: There's no way to tell her tactfully that you have no interest in seeing her without her husband However, since that's the case, consistently and politely decline her luncheon offer and hope she catches on. (But don't hold your breath.)

Weight Watchers stress 'Heart Month'

through his stomach, but the route is fraught with peril.

There are nearly 700,000 fatalities in this country every year from heart attacks, said Adrianne Levine, Area Director for Weight Watchers in western and southern Ohio, who noted that "poor eating habits and excess pounds can contribute significantly to heart disease.

In connection with "Heart Month". now being celebrated by the American Heart Association to alert the public to how they can reduce the risk of heart attack, Adrianne, in citing Heart Association literature, observed that life expectancy can be shortened for those who are markedly over their normal weight.

The American Heart Association points out that:

1. Men in their middle years who are significantly overweight have about three times the risk of a fatal heart attack compared with those of normal weight.

2. Obesity also heightens the possibility of high blood pressure or diabetes.

3. Since most people reach their normal adult weight between the ages of 21 and 25, fewer calories are needed after that to maintain normal weight Dr. William H. Sebrell, Medical Director of Weight Watchers International, has stated that, "Regrettable, people in their 30's and 40's tend to eat as much as they did when they were in their 20's. This, coupled with a diminished physical activity, can mean that the body will store excess calories

There are no short cuts to weight reduction," a fact that is being stressed by the American Heart Association.

'People should avoid so-called 'crash diets,' said Dr. Sebrell, who added that "they invariable omit nutritious foods that are vital to good health. "And even when extreme reducing diets are successful, they produce only temporary results. This is because the individual does not develop a pattern of eating designed to keep his or her weight at a normal level.

Dr. Sebrell cited an American Heart Association report that there still is no "ironclad proof" that reducing known risks of heart disease will prevent heart attacks.

"However, most scientific evidence points that way, and at the very least reducing the risks—obesity is a major one-can contribute to general good health," Dr. Sebrell said.

"Do A Good Turn Daily..."

It works because practice makes perfect, and daily means every day. Boy Scouts get into the habit of looking for ways to help others, until the habit of helpfulness becomes a way of life. The boy grows into a man who cares...and shows it!

The best part about a good turn is that it's good for the boy. He feels better about himself. because he can help other people. He learns he can really make a difference in shaping a better world. He doesn't stop at one a day. He's always finding new ways to do good...and doing them for his fellow men.

A SCOUT IS... TRUSTWORTHY

Whether at work or at play our dealings with other people are based on trust. If we can't trust people, the great work of strengthening the American way of life would soon come to an end. We want to be worthy of great trust.

Postal dilemma looms for Lees Creek

LEES CREEK. Ohio - This small village of some 200 persons in eastern Clinton County recently received a postal survey asking patrons to select an alternate service if the post office is

Joseph Scanlon, district manager for the U.S. Postal Service in Cincinnati, said the survey would have a definite bearing on whether the post office will close. Surveys were sent to small U.S. post offices, ones rated either third or fourth class in the outdated rating system, according to Scanlon.

An information package, including the survey, will be sent to Chicago and then to Washington, D. C., where the postmaster general will decide whether to close the post offices

The Lees Creek post office was one of four in Ohio receiving surveys.

The survey listed four alternatives. The first is a community post office which would be operated by a private person. Bids would be taken and the lowest bidder would perform the duties of a postmaster. The second is to add the post office boxes to another existing rural route. In the Lees Creek community, it is speculated the mail would be delivered from nearby Sabina.

The third alternative is a combination of the first two.

The fourth is to have a non-person post office. The rural carrier would stop and pick up mail at lock boxes and wait 15 minutes at the boxes for anyone wishing to buy stamps or mail out packages.

Also on the form is a place for comments from the postal patrons of the community

Janet L. Davis, postmaster in the Lees Creek community, for the past 18 years, said she hopes the comments from the patrons in Lees Creek will help keep the post office alive. The small community has 50 boxholders, but also serves the surrounding five-mile area for selling stamps and mialing out packages. "We have quite a few elderly people in the village who won't be able to go eight always start with the little guy.

miles to the nearest post office if ours is closed." Mrs. David said.

"If all smaller post offices close, I feel it will hurt rural America." she said, "and in our 200-year celebration, that's really sad.

Mrs. Davis said the post office has been at its present location the past 17 years and records show the first postmaster held that job in 1894.

'As far as the economy, I can't see that closing the small post offices will save that much," Mrs. Davis said. "I think if the larger ones would make a few cuts, it would be better. They

Coded grocery pricing topic at club meeting

GOOD HOPE - A shop steward for a local retail union addressed the Good Hope Lions Club Thursday night concerning proposed legislation on coded grocery pricing.

Ms. Sharon Haggard, of Sabina a noted opponent of pending legislation which would allow unpriced items on grocery shelves, discussed the possible advantages and disadvantages of Universal Product Code pricing and computerized grocery checkout.

The product code is the collection of black bars which appear on items found in grocery and other retail stores. This marking can be read by scanning computers at optical checkout lanes for instantaneous recording. Mrs. Haggard Noted that the legislation pending in the Ohio House would allow groceries to stop marking the price on each individual item and instead mark only the shelves. This portion of the bill has been the most heavily criticized by opponents.

Potential benefits of the new system include reduced time in checkout lanes, a reduction in human errors at the cash register, sales receipts which indicate the item pruchased as well as the price. Another hotly contested benefit is a reduction in labor costs associated with elimination of pricing individual items.

Some consumer groups, however, question each of these benefits claimed by grocers. They contend that rather than reducing checkout times, the groceries will reduce the number of cashiers leaving customers in line for the same amount of time; can instantaneously raise the price of goods on shelves, perhaps between the time a customer picks the item from the shelf and the time he arrives at the checkout; without brand names and sizes on the sales receipt, the type of item is of limitted budgeting or comparison value; and the savings of not pricing each item is insignificant.

According to the consumer Federation of America, the cost of pricing all items individually is about $225 per week for a major grocery store. This savings, it contends, is minimal compared to the inconvenience to shoppers and the potential for misuse by the retailer.

Ms. Haggard urged those present to examine the product coding issue outlined in House Bill 720 and to contact their representatives to the legislature to make their feelings know.

UPCOMING EVENTS for the Good Hope Lions include the annual ladies dinner March 25 when the club will hold a "Las Vegas" night.

A pancake and sausage supper will be held in Wayne Hall March 13 and a dance is scheduled in the Mahan Building April 3. The Memorymakers Band will provide entertainment, and tickets will be $6 per couple.

A club zone meeting will be held March 11 in the Jeffersonville Inn. Attending Thursday's meeting were members of the Port William and Sabina Lions clubs.

Bench gets $200,000

CINCINNATI (AP) — Johnny Bench, baseball's latest $200,000 player, says its time to stand up and be counted on baseball's reserve clause.

'Baseball is at a crossroads and I think it's up to the players to decide whether to keep it going," said the Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher Thursday after announcing he had decided not to play out his option.

"I don't want it to be said that I ruined the game for others," said the two-time Most Valuable Player of the National League. He views abolition of the reserve clause as "something that could destroy the price structure" of

Sam Snead pushes for golf lead

LOS ANGELES (AP) - His straw hat covers the bald pate and his wide West Virginia smile shows satisfaction as the 63-year-old Sam Snead continues to show the youngsters that the oldsters have something left.

'It's great, no, in fact, it's fantastic that a man Sam's age can play as well as he does," declared British Open champion Tom Watson, 26, who like Snead fired a four-under-par 67 in Thursday's opening round of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open. Both Snead and Watson were one stroke behind the leader, Tom Jenkins, 28, of Houston, but the old man still commanded the attention. Except for a double bogey on the fifth hole when he hit a tree with his tee shot and banged a limb with his second. "Other than that I played pretty well from tee to green," said Snead whose 34-year-old nephew, J.C. Snead, won the $180,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open just last Sunday.

J.C. had said he thought Sam might win another big tournament but personally kind of doubted it.

"I think that's about right," the slammer of yesteryear admitted. "I've been weighing between 190 and 195 the past 10 years. If I could get in better physical shape, I'd have a good

But his club duties interfere with any further all-out tournament play. As an ex-champion, Snead came to Los Angeles for the Golden Anniversary celebration of the Los Angeles Open on Tuesday. He played par golf, better than the others of his era.

Jenkins, the leader, won the Philadelphia Classic last year for his only PGA victory since joining the tour in 1972.

The Texan carded five birdies without going over par on a hole. His putts for birdies ranged from two to 15 feet but generally it was his iron game that put him in subpar position.

Does Cirrhosis Mean Alcoholism?

My husband has cirrhosis of the liver. Whenever I mention it corns of the feet can be to others, they think he's an dangerous. I have them. alcoholic. Is alcohol the only reason for this condition? He drinks moderately, as a social drinker.

Mrs. J.K., Mich. Dear Mrs. K .:

Almost invariably, the first thought that occurs to people when "cirrhosis" is mentioned is its association with chronic alcoholism. And there is firm basis for this suspicion. For chronic alcoholism is undoubtedly the most frequent cause of severe cirrhosis of the

Yet, there are other reasons for this condition. The changes in the liver that impair its function may also be caused by infection, viral hepatitis, severe malnutrition and other factors. It is not well known that chronic heart failure, for example, may also produce cirrhosis.

Some hereditary birth defects and metabolic disorders, too, can be responsible.

It is now possible to perform what is known as "liver profile studies." These chemical tests give a total portrait of the condtion of the liver and its function.

There is no need to share specific terms with friends or neighbors. Then, those who have no understanding of the true nature of a condition will not stigmatize the patient afflicted with it.

Someone told me that soft

Mr. G.G., R.I. Dear Mr. G.:

The "authority" who gave you that information is practicing medicine without a license. More especially, he is practicing medicine without knowledge.

Corns are simple thickenings of the layers of the skin. Almost always, they are caused by pressure.

The distinction between "hard" corns and "soft" corns is a matter of location rather than severity. Hard corns occur on the top of the toes. Soft corns occur between the toes. They are soft because they are constantly being moisturized by perspiration.

Neither type of corn is dangerous UNLESS one undertakes his own surgery and does physical harm to himself. Knives, scissors and razor blades can be dangerous weapons when one tries to remove one's own corns.

Poor lighting and a distorted posture makes it virtually impossible to do the safe, complete job that should be relegated to the podiatrist.

vulnerable. The bidding has gone:

North East South West 2 • 1 🖤

What would you bid now with each of the following five

1. ♠ AK983 ♥ Q74 ◆762 ♣J8 2. ♠ AJ7 ♥J5 ♦ KQ9 ♣ KQJ63 3. ♠ 10 ♥Q863 ♠ A65 ♣ AQJ84 4. ♠ AJ762 ♥ K76 ♦— ♠ KJ985 5. ♠ KJ8753 ♥9 ♦ J83 ♣ 972

1. Two hearts. The best way to show heart support, which you have, is by raising hearts. A two spade bid would by no means suggest support for hearts, and there is no reason to assume that spades would be a better trump suit. Partner did not open the bidding - he merely overcalled - and a two spade bid (not forcing) could easily lead to the wrong contract.

2. Three notrump. Partner must have values of some sort for his bid - whether in high cards, distribution, or a combination of both. Game must be reached, whatever the nature of his values.

Although three notrump appears to be the right spot, North may have other thoughts and go on to four hearts -

You are South, both sides which your well-rounded hand can also support. The important point is that you can't bid only two notrump or three clubs, neither of which is forcing.

3. Four hearts. If North can't make ten tricks, you'd better get yourself a new partner. A possible alternative bid is three diamonds, a cuebid, to indicate slam possibilities.

4. Three diamonds. Here, also, you must get to game and conceivably a slam - and the proper way of suggesting both possibilities is by a cuebid. Furthermore, North may have a second suit to bid, in which case the cuebid might elicit that information from him and produce a more satisfactory trump suit. Of course, if North merely bids three hearts, you carry on to four hearts.

5. Pass. Here there is danger of a misfit, and the wisest thing North's overcall in the one level to do is to pass. Two spades implied interest in a part score, might work out well in a given case, but all too often it would lead you into serious trouble.

The misfit in hearts is already apparent, and if you were to try two spades and find North weak in that suit, the opponents might get into a doubling rhythm and collect a big fat penalty. There is a very healthy rule that, in misfit hands, you drop out of the picture as soon as possible. Here, that time is now.

Paid sabbaticals by profs approved

COLUMBUS. Ohio Instructors at state universities with at least seven years teaching service could take a oneyear paid sabbatical under legislation narrowly approved by the House Thursday and headed for Senate consideration.

With 50 votes needed for passage, the bill squeaked by 52-33 after extensive debate that prompted one legislatorprofessor to excuse himself from the vote for fear of a conflict of interest.

By a 68-20 vote, state representatives sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill that establishes a set of guidelines to protect students rights in disciplinary actions. If the governor signs the bill, pupils in most cases will be guaranteed prior notice and a hearing before they can be suspended or expelled from primary or secondary schools.

Rep. Marcus A. Roberto, D-62 Ravenna, sponsor of the paidleave bill, said the plan would improve "instruction, research and community

The professional leaves could be granted by trustees at stateassisted colleges and universities as part of a faculty improvement program. However, the professor or instructor applying for the sabbatical would have to submit a specific plan for his or her professional improvement during time spent away from the institution.

The leave could not be granted if it forced the school to hire a full-time replacement that would be an addition to the staff. Instructors on leave could not be paid a higher salary than they receive for regular duties.

Those guidelines failed to satisfy opponents who attempted to have the legislation sent back to committee.

Asst. Minority Leader Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, said the bill would hurt the competitive position of small, private colleges. "Those institutions are not going to be able to hire, good qualified teachers or to keep

Plant manager club speaker

An official of the Calmar Division of the Diamond International Corp. was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Shrine Club Thursday night.

A.H. Anderson, plant manager of the new facility in the city's industrial park, told Shrine Club members company officials had two important determining factors in selecting Washington C.H. as the site of the plant which will employ about 400 persons during full operations.

The factors, according to Anderson, were "the friendly roots of the people" and "the professionalism among residents, utilities, realtors, bankers and other businessmen including Community members of the Improvement Corp.

Anderson continued by saying, "Of 150 persons who came for preliminary interviews, 74 en cent had spent most of their life in this community. It was a big factor and showed us that people like it here and are going to stay and work here.'

The Calmar Division onsidered 53 cities in 17 different states before narrowing the selection and looking at properties in five midwestern states. Washington C.H. was the smallest location under consideration, he said.

The meeting was conducted by club president Rex Bloomer and the speaker was introduced by Paul (Butch) Hughes. During the meeting, a memorial service was held for Dana Hyer, Harold (Babe) Maddux and

Ohio's railroad measure revived

Vol. 118 — No. 60

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - House constitutional amendment allowing members have voted unanimously to state money to be spent on government resubmit to the voters a proposed created railroads.

On federal funding

Rattlesnake project now awaits decision

The Rattlesnake Creek ditch project is temporarily in the hands of the federal government. The $2.5 million project is being considered for federal funding, and no action will be taken locally until a determination is made on the federal level.

The proposed improvement spans four counties and county com-missioners from each attended a meeting Thursday at the Mahan Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds to discuss progress on the project. The Ohio Department of Soil and Water Conservation has completed surveys of the area, and all available information is being submitted to the U.S. Department of Soil and Water Conservation for study. If a favorable benefit-cost ratio is found, the project will become eligible for federal assistance.

Fayette County commissioner Ray D. Warner, who chaired the meeting, said that only 10 such water projects will be approved for funding by the federal government during 1976. He added, however, that the Rattlesnake project is the first to be presented to the government this year.

INITIATED SOME 10 years ago as the Rattlesnake Creek Watershed project, the program has been studied extensively. It originally sought to improve the flow of Rattlesnake Creek and its tributaries from South Solon to a point south of Greenfield in Highland County. The project was found to produce too little benefit to justify the cost involved. Sections of the project seemed workable, however, and part of the project was resubmitted last year as a petitioned ditch improvement. Filing the petition were members of the original steering committee, including chairman John A. Peterson. The current project is divided into five separate sections. The area between Ohio 729 and Snowhill Road had been surveyed earlier. Surveys of four other areas have recently been completed. They are the main branch of Rattlesnake Creek from Madison

County to Ohio 729; Grassy Branch in

Greene County; Wilson Creek in Clinton County; and from Snowhill

Road to the south terminus. Warner said he has been in contact with Richard Croft of the Ohio Soil Conservation Service in Columbus who is apparently very optimistic about the chances for federal assistance.

A major concern-and the one which killed the Upper Paint Creek watershed project last summer-is the benefitcost ratio. The federal government must find that for each dollar spent, residents along the route will receive well over one-dollar's worth of benefits. Since the Upper Paint Creek project involved only farmland and a limited number of individual residents, the government's method of determining benefits resulted in an unfavorable

The Rattlesnake project includes the village of Sabina which local officals hope will result in a more favorable benefit determination.

The current project involves nearly 100,000 acres of land in the four counties, nearly half of which is in Fayette County. The preliminary cost estimate is approximately $2.5 million.

Warner noted that the government might approve sections of the project without approving it in its entirety. If this happens, the remainder of the project would be considered for individual ditch petitions.

Even if federal assistance is obtained, area residents will be required to share in the cost on an assessment

Thursday's meeting was adjourned meetings until some definite information is obtained from federal officials or representatives of the Ohio Soil Conservation Service.

Warner noted that it might be some time before any word is received. The federal government will release no information on the project applications until all have been received nationwide. After they have been studied, the 10 grant recipients will be announced. Nothing is expected prior to that time.

Patty 'takes 5th' 19 times

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - Patricia Hearst's attorneys, who instructed her to invoke the 5th Amendment 19 times in her bank robbery trial, faced another legal skirmish today in their battle to keep what they claim is potentially incriminating evidence from the jury. U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter upheld Miss Hearst's right to refuse to answer the government prosecutor's questions Thursday about her actions during the 12 months before her capture.

But U.S. Atty. James L. Browning Jr. said he intended to ask Carter today to admit a taped jailhouse conversation as evidence of the defendant's willing commitment to radical social change.

In the contested tape recording, Miss Hearst told long-time friend Patricia Tobin within 48 hours of her Sept. 18 arrest that her future statements would be from "a revolutionary feminist perspective.

Such change, he argued, led her to join with her Symbionese Liberation

Army kidnapers in the April 15, 1974, robbery of a Hibernia Bank branch headed by Miss Tobin's father.

Chief defense attorney F. Lee Bailey contends the jailhouse tape is irrelevant to the bank robbery for which Miss Hearst is on trial.

Browning planned to resume his cross-examination of Miss Hearst today, the defendant's 22nd birthday.

Miss Hearst underwent her first full day of cross-examination Thursday and testified that she was not certain that she was brainwashed by her captors - as previously maintained by her defense lawyers. She said, "I'm not sure what happened to me.'

She said she did not try to contact her parents during her underground odyssey because she felt they would not want to see or hear from her. She conceded that perhaps she should have risked accepting an early offer of freedom from her captors and cried when asked to recount physical abuse at their hands.

Indiana man wins

CLEVELAND (AP) - Marion L. Hensley says the $1,000 a month for life he's going to receive from the Ohio Lottery is going to make his upcoming retirement on his Indiana farm all that much more pleasant. Hensley, 56, of West Harrison, Ind.

was the top prize winner in Thursday's drawing of the Buckeye 1,000 contest. He is guaranteed of receiving at least $400,000.

The winner said he's been planting walnut, poplar and pine trees on his 12acre farm in anticipation of his retirement about a year and a half

He is a maintenance supervisor at the Fisher body stamping plant in Hamilton, Ohio. The father of four, Hensley said he's looking for a plentiful tree harvest in what has now become a well-endowed future.

Other lottery winners were John Brasher of Toledo, $10,000; Elizabeth Murdock of Columbus, $7,500; Carol Elum of Akron, $5,000; William Brunelle of Eastlake, $4,000; Frank Getty of Mentor, $3,000; Edward Muszynski of Cleveland, $2,000 and Norma Roth of Lorain, $1,000.

In the Buckeye 1,000, the winning sixdigit was 194353, the five-digit number was 45437, the four-digit number was 0209 and the three-digit number was

In the Spirit of '76 game, the six-digit number was 857037, the five-digit number was 31475 and the four-digit number was 4433. The liberty bell numbers were 56, 54, 41 and 59.

The House endorsed 87-0 Thursday a rewritten version of the so-called "rail amendment" defeated by voters last

If the Senate agrees, the rail amendment will reappear on Ohio's June 8 primary election ballot.

The amendment's sponsor, Rep. Arthur Wilkowski, D-46 Toledo, said the need is clearer since the voters' decision last fall.

Wilkowski also sponsored last fall's rail amendment, and told the House he'd drop the matter if it weren't so important.

"If anybody's got a right to be sick and tired of this, I do," Wilkowski said. 'And, I am sick and tired of it.'

The proposed constitutional amendment would allow state money to be spent on government-created railroads such as Amtrak or the new ConRail.

Wilkowski said if the amendment is not eventually approved, Ohio couldbe barred from about $9 million in federal subsidies for rail track now marked for abandonment

Ohio cannot use it now because of a constitutional prohibition against using state funds to aid a private corporation. The proposed amendment would put an exception in that prohibition to allow Ohio to continue operations on the abandoned lines with federal funds.

We can't get a penny for Ohio unless this particular proposal passes in the House today," Wilkowski said.

Wilkowski told House members that the Michigan rail authority is now getting a check for $1.8 million to purchase 400 miles of track being abandoned in that state.

Ohio stands to lose more than twice that amount of track when ConRail begins operation April 1, he said, but presently can do nothing about it.

After the unanimous House support, Wilkowski predicted quick approval in the Senate

He said he hopes for approval of the amendment in June. Voter attitude should be more favorable than it was last November, Wilkowski said, because ConRail will be a reality and track actually will have been aban-

"The small shippers will be screaming," Wilkowski said. Many small shippers have said they will be forced to close their plants if their rail lines are abandoned. The ballot also will not be crowded by other issues, he noted. The ballot last November was dominated by Gov. James A. Rhodes $4.5 billion economic recovery package.

In running for village mayor's post

Lack of police protection sparked Summers' interest

Record-Herald Staff Writer

NEW HOLLAND - New Holland's young mayor Ed Summers said he first became interested in village politics last summer, when he began attending council meetings with complaints about the lack of police protection in the community

Summers' vocal presence at the meetings apparently attracted the attention of several New Holland residents and they asked him to consider running for the mayor's post.

This led to Summers' election in November making him-at 25-the youngest mayor in the history of Fayette and Pickaway counties. Summers, who was a sports star at Miami Trace High School before he graduated in 1968, has resided in New Holland for nearly two years. He lived near Milledgeville before he and his wife (the former Mary Ann Mossbarger) took up residence at 34 S. Main St. in the village which straddles the Pickaway-Fayette county line.

He is presently attending Columbus Technical Institute and is studying for a career as a medical lab technician.

His election to the mayor post was far from being a landslide. He defeated Russell Jacobs, Sr. by 11 votes in the November general election.

Summers said he hadn't thought of seeking the mayor's post until he was contacted by the group of persuading New Holland

ED SUMMERS

"They thought I was young and energetic, and that I took an interest in the community," he said. "They were tired of seeing the community going downhill, and they thought I could get things done.

Summers agreed that there were few steps being taken to make needed improvements in the community. After taking office Jan. 1, Summers had the pleasure of overseeing the hiring of a new police chief. The village's police protection had depended on the daily patrols of Pickaway and Fayette County cruisers December. The police chief post had been left vacant with the dismissal of Roger Green for failure to turn in a detailed monthly time sheet.

According to Summers, the village was in need of better police protection before Green's dismissal.

"We had a man that never had any (police) training. He didn't live in the village and at that time he had an unlisted telephone number," Summers said. Summer's first priority after assuming the mayor post was to find a qualified man for the police

"The people wanted it (the addressed mediately," Summers said of the police chief post after the village approved a two-mill police levy in November. "We had a qualified man (Frank Wood) who was willing to work for a nominal

WCH resident says attention received premature questions concerning their proposed bowling facility.

Billie Welsh, 6496 Ohio 38-N, said he and his wife Martha were surprised when they returned home to find that their proposed bowling establishment had been discussed by the Washington C. H. City Council and covered by local news media. Welsh said the attention paid to the prospect of a bowling facility has been very premature. City Council members discussed at its regular meeting last Wednesday a liquor permit application filed by Fayette Lanes, Inc., for a location at 623 Lewis Street, the address used by Welsh Greenhouse. Council members noted that the area is not zoned for business, and some were upset that plans had reached the liquor permit stage when the City Zoning Board of Appeals had not even been approached with a request for rezoning or a variance.

Welsh explained that there had been a great misunderstanding. The project is still in the infancy of its planning stage, he said. Welsh further stated that he was not attempting to obtain a liquor permit, but rather to reserve one of the few permits available in the Washington C. H. area. He said he is considering construction of a bowling facility, but there is nothing definite, and several locations are being con-liquor permit is available any interest in building bowling lanes would be squashed. Although bowling is the heart of the operation, not liquor, it is difficult to attract patrons when services available at another facility cannot be provided, he said. The reference was obviously to Bowland Lanes, CCC Highway-W, which has the same type of liquor permit Welsh is seeking.

Many people like to have a beer while bowling, Welsh explained. With the number of Sunday leagues, it is important to have a D-5 (nightclub permit) because it is the only license which allows the sale of 3.2 per cent beer for Any possible plans he might have for a bowling facility appear to be well into the future, Welsh said.

The greenhouse operator did say he would soon approach the zoning board with a request to rezone the area. Welsh said the request would be made on behalf of the greenhouse, not a bowling alley. The greenhouse currently holds a variance on the residential zoning in the area. A business establishment for more than 40 years, the greenhouse operation was probably initiated before there was a zoning code. Welsh said. At any rate. the greenhouse is entitled to operate as long as it remains in business, he ad-

The reason he is seeking to have the area rezoned, Welsh said, is to simplify the greenhouse business. "Any time we want to remodel, we have to get permission from the zoning board," explained. If the area were rezoned, the firm could remodel anytime without first seeking the board's approval, he

Welsh added that he had spoken with members of Council since his return to Washington C. H. and explained the reason for the early liquor permit request. He added that he had not intended to "apply" for a permit, but had only asked to have one held in his name (Fayette Lanes, Inc.) until he could further investigate the potential for a

Schorr faces secrecy probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - In two developments arising from intelligence investigations, the Justice Department says it won't prosecute former CIA Director Richard M. Helms for his role in a break-in, while the House says it will investigate CBS newsman Daniel Schorr for arranging publication of a secret document. Despite the Justice Department decision not to prosecute Helms, he remains under investigation for possible perjury. Other former intelligence officials are under Justice Department scrutiny for their roles in mail opening and electronic surveillance programs.

The House voted 269 to 115 on Thursday to have its Ethics Committee probe the leak of the House intelligence committee's secret final report and to decide whether to take action against Schorr, who has admitted giving the document to the weekly Village Voice in New York.

The House suggested no specific action against Schorr, but Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., who introduced the resolution authorizing the investigation, said Schorr's congressional press card could be voided or he could be cited for contempt of Congress.

The Justice Department's decision not to prosecute Helms and other officials involved in the 1971 break-in at a Fairfax City, Va., photographer's studio run by a former CIA employe and her fiance removed any possibility that criminal charges would stem from any of the 12 CIA break-ins uncovered by the Rockefeller Commission. The "other break-ins occurred so long ago that by the statute of limitations it is impossible for us to prosecute," Assistant Atty. Gen. J. Stanley Pottinger told reporters on Thursday

The five-year statute of limitations on the Fairfax break-in, which took place at 2 a.m. on Feb. 20, 1971, was to expire today

Pottinger confirmed that Helms, now ambassador to Iran, "did have an active role in the decision" to conduct the break-in, but Pottinger insisted that "we have been unable to make a case that would stick."

The final decision not to prosecute was made by Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi and was concurred in by all the attorneys, including the special prosecutor's office, which investigated the case, Pottinger said.

He added that the case is being turned over to the department's civil division for possible action.

Ford takes new swings at Reagan

KEENE, N.H. (AP) - Escalating his campaign, bare-knuckles President Ford is accusing challenger Ronald Reagan of advocating "backdoor socialism" and ducking fights he may not win.

Ford on Thursday began his final campaign swing through New Hampshire, where voters cast their ballots in the nation's first presidential primary of the year next Tuesday.

Ford was to travel to Dover, N.H., today for a speech repeating his plans for overhauling the nation's intelligence agencies.

In Keene, Ford said Reagan had proposed investing part of the Social Security trust fund in the stock market. Fielding questions at a "public forum" in a steamy high school gymnasium, Ford declared: 'That's the best blueprint for backdoor socialism I've ever seen. But Reagan aides say the former California governor does not advocate investing Social Security funds. They say Reagan merely noted that some eonomists, whom he did not identify, have suggested the funds could be "invested in the industrial might of America." Ford told the gym crowd that Reagan is trying to capitalize on ideas that are "easy to say" but more difficult to translate into action.

For example, Ford declared, "It's easy to say we ought to cut $90 billion from the federal budget and toss a lot of worthwhile programs to the states.'

Lockheed payoffs to official eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate investigators say a mysterious foreign official is emerging as one of the bestpaid of Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s foreign consultants.

Lockheed documents show that the aircraft firm paid $8.7 million to the official in 1973 and 1974 and that $4.5 million is still owed him. However, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon, chairman of the panel that oversees the government's loan guarantee to Lockheed, said he has been assured the additional sum won't be paid Investigators under Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, said they don't know what country the official is from but that he apparently also is an officer of a government-owned airline.

In another development, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said his Senate panel on multinational corporations is trying to find out the names of foreign government officials who received Lockheed funds. Officials of the company have said they don't know the names of the recipients. In the latest payments to surface, investigators said there is no indication the mystery man is from Japan, home of Yoshio Kodama, whose $7 million makes him another of the highest-paid consultants to be identified in the current disclosures of the company's

The largest Lockheed consulting fee thus far revealed was $106 million paid over a five-year period to Saudi Arabian businessman Adnan M. Khashoggi, with some of that going in kickbacks to Saudi officials.

The payments were cryptically disclosed in a Lockheed report to the Emergency Loan Guarantee Board headed by Simon. No further details were available.

Simon, who decried Lockheed's payoffs, told Proxmire's committee that at least $147 million in completed Lockheed sales, $50 million in pending sales contracts and $25 million in potential sales can be traced directly to political payoffs by the company's agents overseas.

He repeatedly refused to comply with Proxmire's request that Lockheed be compelled to make public the names of all who were bribed and the Lockheed agents who bribed them

'Great Ohioan' awards presented

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio presented "All-Time Great Ohioan Awards" Thursday night to eight of its citizens who have distinguished themselves in as many fields.

Another 13 Ohio citizens and organizations received the Ohio Governor's Award at the 43rd annual convention of the Ohio Newspaper Association. The awards were presented by Gov. James A. Rhodes. William A. Ott, publisher of the Akron Beacon Journal and president of ONA.

The "All-Time Great Ohioan Award" went to Neil A. Sabin of Cincinnati, discovered of an oral vaccine for polio; Lowell Thomas, a native of Darke County who distinguished himself as a reporter, broadcaster and explorer; and Earl Wilson, a nationally syndicated columnist from Rockford.

Others receiving the governor's award included the World Series winning Cincinnati Reds baseball team; Publisher Raymond E. Dix of the Wooster Daily Record; Paul R. Gingher, a trial attorney, insurance executive and civic leader from Lancaster and Columbus; Ohio State University football player Archie Griffin, only athlete ever to win two Heisman trophies; the late Warren G. Grimes who founded Grimes Manufacturing Co., at Urbana; Ned W Harden of Circleville who annually promotes the Circleville Pumpkin Festival: writer Betty Klaric of the Cleveland Press;

Sebastian Lupica, a Cleveland labor leader; the Miami (of Ohio) University football team which won the Mid-American Conference title for three consecutive years; the Ohio State University football team, which represented the Big Ten Athletic Conference in this year's Rose Bowl game: Margaret Schott, a Cincinnati business executive, and the Wittenberg University football team, which this year won the NCAA College-Division III national football title.

Actress Lillian Gish of Springfield and Massillon, and Cincinnati Reds star Joe Morgan, both scheduled to receive awards, were unable to attend.

He said, that only the name has been reserved so that it can be used in the event that the bowling establishment becomes a reality, he concluded.

But he said it wouldn't work the way Reagan has proposed transferring responsibility and tax revenue sources for some social programs from Washington to the states.

A number of Keene residents questioned Ford's pardon of resigned President Richard M. Nixon, raised the subject of Nixon's forthcoming trip to China and echoed a Reagan campaign claim that the administration connived with Congress under a Washington "buddy system" to raise the pay of Senate and House members.

Reagan says.

Ford denied that his pardon of Nixon was "somewhat premature," arguing that Nixon had paid a tremendous penalty because he "resigned in disgrace." He said the pardon cleared the air and permitted the nation to come to grips with serious economic problems.

Ford insisted Nixon is bound for China as an ordinary citizen. And he defended efforts to strengthen ties with China, saying relations with the mainland Chinese "are good and they are going to continue to be good. There's no reason for anyone to doubt

As for claims the administration worked to boost congressional salaries at the expense of federal workers, Ford snapped: "There was no conniving and any accusation to that effect is completely without fact or foundation."

Meanwhile, there were these political developments Thursday:

-Former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter said he expects to finish "first or second, maybe first" in New Hampshire's Democratic primary. He continued to face questions over his past comments about former Georgia Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox.

-Former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris said in Concord that his canvassers show him among the top three candidates in the state's Democratic race. He did not name the other two candidates but said if he did not finish at least third "it would be a real

-The New Englander magazine said poll of executives of the region's top 150 industrial and service firms showed Ford and Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., as the likely opponents in the November general election. Humphrey is not an announced candidate.

-A Democratic write-in campaign emerged for former Texas Gov. John B. Connally with the distribution of an advertising insert Thursday in New Hampshire's daily newspapers. The insert urged voters to write in Connally, a Democrat-turned-Republican, on the Democratic ballot.

-Humphrey was in Northampton, Mass., where he said again he might accept a presidential draft, but "the possibilities are not very strong." He added. "I am not a candidate.

-Rep. Morris Udall said in Boston that if elected president he would "run some risks" to unilaterally stop constructing nuclear weapons. "I'd be prepared to say to the Soviets, 'Look, we're stopping construction at 8,000. That's enough," the Arizona Democrat said in a speech to about 1,000 persons. zamananan mananan manan

Two other projects, the improvement of the village water system and the sewage system, are now attracting Summers' water system has deteriorated over the past several years," Summers said. 'Two well pumps need to be replaced and one-third of the water meters don't function properly

The village applied for a U.S. Housing and Urban Development (HUD) grant to improve the community's water system. If that grant is not approved, Summers said the village would have to apply for a Farmers Home Administration loan.

The sewage system has been a problem in the village for several years. Plans for a new sewage plant have been submitted for Environmental Protection Agency approval, but the construction of such a plant has been termed as "a long way off."

Summers would also like to see the village's town hall renovated, but he feels the building has deteriorated to such an extent that building a new one would be more feasible than repairing the present structure.

Summers hopes to get more people involved in the community before his four-year term expires, and he said the village's chamber of commerce is already showing signs of being revitalized.

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market, still buoyed by the enthusiasm of Thursday's rally in which a new volume record was set, continued to steam upward today.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials climbed more than four points minutes after the opening. Gainers held a 7 to 2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Although the prime mover in Friday's rally was the sheer momentum of the previous day's advice, traders received some relatively favorable economic news from Washington as the market opened.

The Labor Department reported that consumer prices increased four-tenths of a per cent in January, compared with a five-tenths of a per cent climb in December. The report said retail food prices declined in January for the first time in five months.

Among the early blue chip leaders, U.S. Steel rose a point to 831/8, International Paper gained 11/4 to 77, and Eastman Kodak was ahead 11/4 to 1111/4.

Samplings from the stream

For anyone interested in keeping abreast of our changing society, it is a fascinating frustration to browse through the book reviews. There is just too much to cope with, an unending freshet of new works political memoirs, biographies, poetry, social analysis, philosophy, books on science; on and

The only defense is selectivity That, of course, is where the reviews come in. Though one cannot rely on them wholly, they do provide some idea of what might be worth dipping

This is the start of the weeding-out process. The next step is to lay hands on those books that survive the initial test, and do some sampling. Yet at current prices, buying even a fraction of what attracts one may be prohibitive. What to do, then?

We have a friend who solves the problem neatly. He haunts the newbook shelf at the nearest library, dipping into some items on the spot, taking others home for a longer look. Most of them, even those he reads through, do not strike him as books he wants to own.

Of those that do qualify, he makes a list - and buys what he can afford. Slowly his library accumulates. His claim is that, for all the flood of new stuff, he has yet to buy a book he wouldn't care to read again. It works for him. How well it will work for others depends on their sales resistance.

The three GE specialists, Dale G. Bridenbaugh, Gregory C. Minor and Richard B. Hubbard, have been called to testify before the congressional Joint Committee on Atomic Energy. Another witness will be Robert Pollard who resigned from the Nuclear Regulatory Commission for the same reasons. The three Californians will work for the initiative proposal on the California June primary ballot that could eventually lead to the prohibition of nuclear reactors in that state.

"My reason for leaving is a deep conviction that nuclear reactors and nuclear weapons now present serious danger to the future of all life on this planet," Minor, manager for advanced controls and administration, said in his letter of resignation.

In light of the fantastic development of nuclear power plants this looks a bit like locking the barn door after the horse has been stolen. Currently 56 nuclear power plants are operating and 69 are under construction. The size of the investment can be guaged by the average cost of such a plant which is between $600 million and $1 billion.

By 1985, it is estimated that there will be from 150 to 189 plants in operation, producing about 18 per cent of the total electrical energy consumed in this country

Thus far only one nuclear power plant has suffered major damage. By a careless accident, a fire was set off a year ago in the Brown's Ferry plant of the Tennessee Valley Authority at Decatur, Ala., the largest nuclear reactor complex in the world. Rehabilitation is being completed and, according to TVA, Brown's Ferry will be in operation by next month. When TVA's nuclear program is completed in 1982 the authority will have seven plants powered by nuclear reactors.

The fact that no radioactive material was released in the Brown's Ferry fire is taken by specialists at the Nuclear Regulatory Agency as proof that present safeguards are adequate.

But the Brown's Ferry fire was cited by the GE executives who resigned as ason for their action. They listed too, both the nuclear explosion set off by India with plutonium that had been supplied by Canada for peaceful purposes and the American decision to sell reactors to Egypt and Israel.

"The Brown's Ferry incident showed human fallacy," Hubbard said. "I have been involved in making a lot of field fixes in reactors and I have developed a strong feeling that we don't really know what is going on inside a reactor.

The rationalization for foreign sales by top executives and by officials of the Regulatory Agency is that if the United States were to turn down such sales other countries, notably France, would step in. Nuclear power is spreading around the world with remarkable rapidity. Recently West Germany sold

Brazil a complete nuclear fuel cycle. According to a recent government report, GE is the world's largest manufacturer of nuclear equipment, having supplied 27 of the 99 reactors reportedly operating around the world as of late 1974.

The dispute over the use of nuclear power is a contest in which the environmentalists have steadily lost out. But with three new recruits with intimate knowledge, their case will be markedly strengthened.

Rhodes sets trade trip

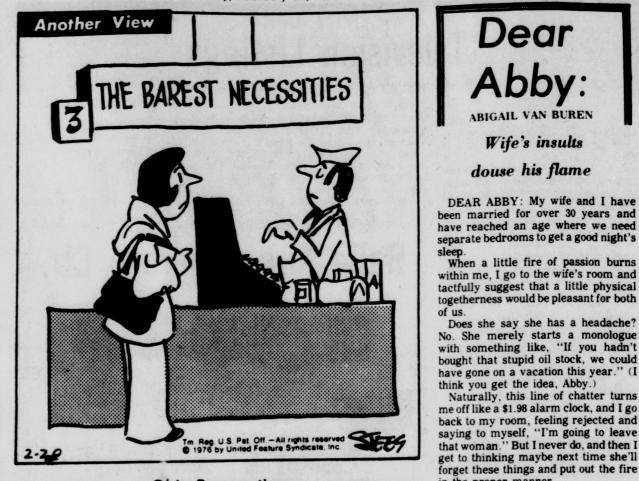

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) preliminary agenda for the Ohio European Trade Mission from March 6 through 20 was announced Thursday by the state development department.

"The purpose of the mission, led by Gov. James A. Rhodes, will be to promote the sale of Ohio manufactured and agricultural products abroad. attract job-producing industries and businesses to Ohio, and encourage the use of Ohio ports and transportation facilities," said the Department of Economic and Community Develop-

Rhodes will open the Ohio international trade office in Brussels on March 8; meet with Leonard K. Firestone, ambassador to Belgium: travel to Dusseldorf, West Germany, for two days of individual and group business meetings, and meet with West German business leaders and government officials in Bonn. Towards the end of the mission, participants will split into several small groups to travel independently to cities in France, Sweden, the Netherlands and Italy.

Mission members will complete the

State solons push adjournment

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Ohio's 1975 legislative session may be brought to an end much sooner than the June 1 target date leaders set initially. A mid-April adjournment date has been mentioned

Democratic majority leaders say privately they are frustrated over the political standoff with Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes, whom they feel is using the legislature as a scapegoat for his administration's own failures.

Otherwise, House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said most of the 11th General Assembly's major accomplishments-record outlays for education without new taxes among them-were achieved in the first year of the legislative biennium

Riffe and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, apparently have agreed that two remaining items-utility rate law revision and some form of future property tax relief-must be finished before the lawmakers go home.

One of the measures has passed each

Senate hearings are expected to get under way in the House next week on a controversial measure, approved by the Senate, that repeals Ohio's 64-yearold utility rate-making formula and replaces it with one being billed by sponsors as offering greater protection to utility consumers

At the same time, the Senate will begin taking a close look at a complicated House measure that seeks to prevent inflation-caused increases in the tax bills of Ohio's homeowners.

Otherwise, numerous bills of lesser impact are pending at various stages, but with few possible exceptions are expendable at least for this year in the minds of legislative leaders. The almost daily clash with Rhodes centers largely around the 66-year-old governor's budget cuts and an almost continuous parade of his department heads to the legislature asking for more Both parties are saddled by promises to voters of no new or additional taxes, made more ominous when voters rejected Rhodes' economic ballot package last year-including his call for hikes in the sales and gasoline taxesby overwhelming margins. Rhodes claims Democrats underfunded the state's 1975-77 budget by more than $100 million, which he compensated for with his order for a two per cent, across-the-board spending cut by his executive departments.

Aides to the governor have insisted that the heads of departments have a right to compete in the legislature for whatever funds are available or might become available due to increased state revenues, some of which are exceeding original estimates.

Naturally, this line of chatter turns me off like a $1.98 alarm clock, and I go back to my room, feeling rejected and saying to myself, "I'm going to leave that woman." But I never do, and then I get to thinking maybe next time she'll forget these things and put out the fire in the proper manner.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are getting a divorce. We have a 2-monthold baby. When our baby was 3 weeks old, I caught my husband with another woman.

To teach him a lesson I filed for a divorce, thinking it would make him regret what he had done and he would beg me to take him back. Well, it didn't work, so now I am getting a divorce from a husband I am still in love with and don't want to lose

DEAR ABBY: I am a wife and homemaker who enjoys entertaining, and I am told I do it well. We recently entertained another couple in our home for dinner, and I prepared a delicious gourmet meal. (The man works with my husband.)

Before they left, the wife said, "I don't knock myself out cooking for company anymore, but I'd be glad to drive you uptown for lunch some day."

Abby, is that kind of invitation proper reciprocation for a dinner such as mine? My husband and I are interested in these people as a couple. It was not my intention to socialize at lunch with this lady alone.

How should this be handled tactfully if she invites me to lunch "uptown sometime"?

IN A BIND DEAR IN: There's no way to tell her tactfully that you have no interest in seeing her without her husband. However, since that's the case, consistently and politely decline her luncheon offer and hope she catches on. (But don't hold your breath.)

Today In History

By The Associated Press Today is Friday, Feb. 20th, the 51st day of 1976. There are 315 days left in Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1962, John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth. After being launched from Cape Canaveral, he circled the earth three times and made a safe landing in the Atlantic.

On this date: In 1437, King James I of Scotland was murdered in the Scottish city of Perth.
In 1792, President George Washington signed an act creating the U.S. Post Office. In 1809, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the power of the federal government is greater than that of any individual state. In 1938, Anthony Eden resigned as British foreign secretary, charging Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain with appeasement of Nazi Germany. In 1967, President Sukarno of Inondesia surrendered all executive power to General Suharto, keeping only the title of president.

In 1972, President Richard Nixon arrived in Peking for a historic meeting with officials of Communist China.

Ten years ago: Communist China accused U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk of threatening a major war and declared that China was ready to take up the challenge. One year ago: President Ford signed a bill raising the U.S. debt limit.

Today's birthdays: Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin is 72 years old. Indonesian President Suharto is 55. Socialite Gloria Vanderbilt is 52.

Thought for today: History is something that never happened, written by a person who was not there - anonymous

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the revolutionary Committee of Safety in Virginia rejected an offer by British Governor Lord Dunmore to go to England to try to bring about reconciliation with the American Colonies.

Weight Watchers stress 'Heart Month'

The way to a man's heart may be through his stomach, but the route is fraught with peril.

There are nearly 700,000 fatalities in this country every year from heart attacks, said Adrianne Levine, Area Director for Weight Watchers in western and southern Ohio, who noted that "poor eating habits and excess pounds can contribute significantly to heart disease.

In connection with "Heart Month". now being celebrated by the American Heart Association to alert the public to how they can reduce the risk of heart attack, Adrianne, in citing Heart Association literature, observed that life expectancy can be shortened for those who are markedly over their normal weight.

The American Heart Association points out that:

1. Men in their middle years who are significantly overweight have about three times the risk of a fatal heart attack compared with those of normal weight.

2. Obesity also heightens the possibility of high blood pressure or

Since most people reach their normal adult weight between the ages of 21 and 25, fewer calories are needed

after that to maintain normal weight. Dr. William H. Sebrell, Medical Director of Weight Watchers International, has stated that, "Regrettable, people in their 30's and 40's tend to eat as much as they did when they were in their 20's. This, coupled with a diminished physical activity, can mean that the body will store excess calories

'People should avoid so-called 'crash diets,' said Dr. Sebrell, who added that 'they invariable omit nutritious foods that are vital to good health. "And even when extreme reducing diets are successful, they produce only tem-porary results. This is because the individual does not develop a pattern of eating designed to keep his or her weight at a normal level.

Dr. Sebrell cited an American Heart Association report that there still is no "ironclad proof" that reducing known risks of heart disease will prevent heart

"However, most scientific evidence points that way, and at the very least reducing the risks-obesity is a major one-can contribute to general good health," Dr. Sebrell said.

SCOUTINGS 65 ANNIVERSARY

CELEBRATED IN THE SPIRIT OF 78 ON THE OCCASION OF AMERICA'S 200" ANNIVERSARY

"Do A Good Turn Daily..."

It works because practice makes perfect, and daily means every day. Boy Scouts get into the habit of looking for ways to help others, until the habit of helpfulness becomes a way of life. The boy grows into a man who cares...and shows it!

The best part about a good turn is that it's good for the boy. He feels better about himself because he can help other people. He learns he can really make a difference in shaping a better world. He doesn't stop at one a day. He's always finding new ways to do good...and doing them for his fellow men.

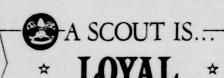

TRUSTWORTHY

Whether at work or at play our dealings with other people are based on trust. If we can't trust people, the great work of strengthening the American way of life would soon come to an end. We want to be worthy of great trust.

A SCOUT IS... * COURTEOUS *

A Scout is always a gentleman. Good manners always please and attract people. But good manners, in reality consideration of others, will make a Scout a much finer man. Every day a Scout has many opportunities to show courtesy.

Postal dilemma looms for Lees Creek

LEES CREEK, Ohio - This small village of some 200 persons in eastern Clinton County recently received a postal survey asking patrons to select an alternate service if the post office is

Joseph Scanlon, district manager for the U.S. Postal Service in Cincinnati, said the survey would have a definite bearing on whether the post office will close. Surveys were sent to small U.S. post offices, ones rated either third or fourth class in the outdated rating system, according to Scanlon.

An information package, including the survey, will be sent to Chicago and then to Washington, D. C., where the postmaster general will decide whether to close the post offices four in Ohio receiving surveys.

The survey listed four alternatives. The first is a community post office which would be operated by a private person. Bids would be taken and the lowest bidder would perform the duties of a postmaster.

The second is to add the post office boxes to another existing rural route. In the Lees Creek community, it is speculated the mail would be delivered from nearby Sabina.

The third alternative is a combination of the first two.

The fourth is to have a non-person post office. The rural carrier would stop and pick up mail at lock boxes and wait 15 minutes at the boxes for anyone

The Lees Creek post office was one of wishing to buy stamps or mail out packages.

Also on the form is a place for comments from the postal patrons of the community.

Janet L. Davis, postmaster in the Lees Creek community, for the past 18 years, said she hopes the comments from the patrons in Lees Creek will help keep the post office alive.

The small community has 50 boxholders, but also serves the surrounding five-mile area for selling stamps and mialing out packages: "We have quite a few elderly people in the village who won't be able to go eight miles to the nearest post office if ours is closed," Mrs. David said.

"If all smaller post offices close, I feel it will hurt rural America," she said, "and in our 200-year celebration, that's really sad.

Mrs. Davis said the post office has been at its present location the past 17 years and records show the first postmaster held that job in 1894.

"As far as the economy, I can't see that closing the small post offices will save that much," Mrs. Davis said. "I think if the larger ones would make a few cuts, it would be better. They always start with the little guy.

Coded grocery pricing topic at club meeting

local retail union addressed the Good Hope Lions Club Thursday night concerning proposed legislation on coded grocery pricing.

Ms. Sharon Haggard, of Sabina a noted opponent of pending legislation which would allow unpriced items on grocery shelves, discussed the possible advantages and disadvantages of Universal Product Code pricing and computerized grocery checkout.

The product code is the collection of black bars which appear on items found in grocery and other retail stores. This marking can be read by optical scanning computers at checkout lanes for instantaneous recording.

Mrs. Haggard Noted that the legislation pending in the Ohio House would allow groceries to stop marking the price on each individual item and instead mark only the shelves. This portion of the bill has been the most neavily criticized by opponents.

Potential benefits of the new system include reduced time in checkout lanes, a reduction in human errors at the cash register, sales receipts which indicate the item pruchased as well as the price. Another hotly contested benefit is a reduction in labor costs associated with elimination of pricing individual items.

Some consumer groups, however, question each of these benefits claimed by grocers. They contend that rather than reducing checkout times, the groceries will reduce the number of

According to the consumer Federation of America, the cost of pricing all items individually is about $225 per week for a major grocery store. This savings, it contends, is minimal compared to the inconvenience to shoppers and the potential for misuse by the retailer.

Ms. Haggard urged those present to examine the product coding issue outlined in House Bill 720 and to contact their representatives to the legislature to make their feelings know

Decides to forget option

Bench gets $200,000

CINCINNATI (AP) - Johnny Bench, baseball's latest $200,000 player, says its time to stand up and be counted on baseball's reserve clause.

Baseball is at a crossroads and I think it's up to the players to decide whether to keep it going," said the Cincinnati Reds All-Star catcher Thursday after announcing he had decided not to play out his option.
"I don't want it to be said that I

LOS ANGELES (AP) — His straw hat covers the bald pate and his wide West Virginia smile shows satisfaction as the 63-year-old Sam Snead continues to show the youngsters that the oldsters have something left.

"It's great, no, in fact, it's fantastic that a man Sam's age can play as well as he does," declared British Open champion Tom Watson, 26, who like Snead fired a four-under-par 67 in Thursday's opening round of the Glen Campbell-Los Angeles Open.

Progressive education harm topic for March 2 program

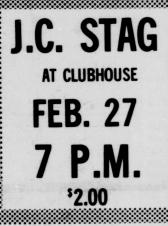

The new education and government master planning for local schools will be the subject of a speech by professional writer and speaker Alan Stang on March 2 in Washington C.H.

Stang on March 2 in Washington C.H.
The talk, entitled "Progressive Education: A Danger to Your Child" will be presented at the Eastside Elementary School gymnasium at 8 p.m. The Fayette County chapters of the John Birch Society will sponsor the talk as a continuation of their program of focusing attention on matters of national concern. The public is invited to attend.

Stang has charged that "govenment master planners are preparing and using radical new techniques and curricula in our schools. Our children are the guinea pigs for material which subtly, and in some case blantantly, undermines loyalty to family, to church, and to country. The school book controversy in West Vriginia is excellent proof of this undermining," Stang continued. "The net effect of this radical curriculum is to produce unprincipled semi-literates who are totally ignorant of their country's history, form of government, and economic system" He added that "oftentimes when parents try to find out what their children are being taught, they run into a barricade of obfucation and outright deceit."

Stang, who also has a daily radio commentary at 8:00 a.m. on WCHO-Radio maintains that "the cause of the trouble in many of our educational institutions today is government involvement. Federal aid to education has converted state-run systems into federal systems," he said. "Years ago, when there were no tax-supported schools, education was parent-controlled. Later schools run by local governments came into being. Still later, state boards of education took over. And now, federal influence reigns supreme. So you can correctly say that public schools are actually government schools," he said.

When asked what remedies he would apply to the problems, he stressed "an end to federal involvement in education, and end to compulsory taxation for schools, and an end to compulsory attendance laws. We would then see the control of our schools back in the hands of the parents and churches, where it belongs, and we would also see the forced bussing of school children stopped."

The journalist also maintains, "it is essential that parents who are concerned with growing teenage drug abuse, lack of moral values, pregnancy and venereal disease, along with the parent-youth communication breakdown, find out exactly what subjects their children are being taught and what techniques are being in the schools."

Other related subjects Stang has written about include the National Education Association, forced bussing, and the proposed Child and Family Services Act of 1975.

Tickets for the engagement are $1.50 in advance or $2 at the door. They can be obtained at Pensyl Camera Shop or from any John Birch Society member.

Park feasibility study sought

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland senator is asking for a Legislative Service Commission study on the feasibility of creating a state park along parts of Cleveland's Lake Erie shoreline.

Sen. Charles L. Butts, D-23, said in a proposed resolution Thursday that such a park could enhance Ohio's tourist industry as well as the economy of the state and the Cleveland metropolitan area.

The service commission, factfinding arm of the General Assembly, would conduct the study if Butts' resolution wins final approval.

Castro sets Moscow trip

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro says he'll personally lead the Cuban Communist party delegation to the 25th Soviet party congress beginning here next Tuesday.

In a 15-minute interview shown on Soviet television's Thursday evening news program, Castro said, "I'm very happy and satisfied to have the opportunity for the first time in my life to be present at a Soviet party congress."

The Cuban Communist leader said he had studied the Soviet economic goals for the next five years and added that they "set out reliable ways for further development of the Soviet Union, consolidation of socialism and advance to communism."

Cuban-Soviet relations have "now reached the highest level," Castro said.

TV Viewing

NEW YORK (AP) — The last of the 12 mid-season replacement series is premiering Saturday on ABC. It's called "Bert D'Angelo-Superstar" and will be the 22nd cop or private series facing us at night now.

Paul Sorvino, a fine actor, is trapped in the title role of this caper about a New York cop who goes West, joins the San Francisco police force for unexplained reasons and commences fighting crime.

ABC describes the show as "a fastmoving series about a tough San Francisco police detective who may bend and twist the rules on occasion to make an arrest."

He should have bent and twisted the author of Saturday's opener, a wandering yarn about a fellow cop from New York who, in the course of visiting the City by the Bay, bumps off a damsel who seems to be his wife.

The cop, played by George Dzundza, first calls Sorvino from the hotel, the cop's wife says hello in the phone, and all hands agree to meet for breakfast the next morning.

"Hey, take care of your person,"
Sorvino says before hanging up.

But that night, the gendarme instead takes care of his wife's person, adjusting her scarf in such a manner as to make her expire right there on Telegraph Hill.

The foul deed is observed by a drug dealer lurking nearby. He later tracks down the officer and puts the bite on him for $15,000.

Prior to that, the cop has told Sorvino his wife is AWOL and seeks help finding her. No sweat, Sorvino says: "I'll have this out on the street and I'll have her back to you in no time at all."

Well, sir, that seems to take forever. But during forever, the bad cop fatally stabs his blackmailer, the body of a woman is found on Telegraph Hill and is identified as a New York call girl.

By a process too laborious to describe, Sorvino starts thinking. He's thinking that the dead woman was brought to San Francisco by his pal, who passed her off on the phone as his wife.

Danged if I can recall why he did this or why he killed her— although those who persevere may find out by hiring a plot detective—but Sorvino suspects his pal also may have done in his real wife back in Fun City.

When he unloads his suspicion on his pal, the pal growls, "Arrest me, then. Read me my rights and try to make it stick!"

If you don't get the point of this discourse, the baddie emphasizes it again to Sorvino, saying, "Go grab a rubber room, mister. Arrest me or get out of my life."

Well, I don't want to disclose the finale, but rest assured justice is served, and without are shots fired, at that.

"Superstar" may improve in coming episodes, but Saturday's premiere show is a superdud, and San Francisco should demand a recount. GERBER PRE-FINISHED

Mrs. J.K., Mich.

Dear Mrs. K.: Almost invariably, the first thought that occurs to people when "cirrhosis" is mentioned is its association with chronic alcoholism. And there is firm chronic alcoholism is un- pressure. doubtedly the most frequent in the liver that impair its function may also be caused by infection, viral hepatitis, severe malnutrition and other factors.

It is not well known that chronic heart failure, for example, may also produce cirrhosis.

Some hereditary birth defects and metabolic disorders, too, can be responsible.

It is now possible to perform what is known as "liver profile studies." These chemical tests give a total portrait of the condtion of the liver and its function.

There is no need to share specific terms with friends or neighbors. Then, those who have no understanding of the true nature of a condition will not stigmatize the patient afflicted with it.

My husband has cirrhosis of Someone told me that soft the liver. Whenever I mention it corns of the feet can be Mr. G.G., R.I.

Dear Mr. G.:

The "authority" who gave you that information is practicing medicine without a license. More especially, he is practicing medicine without knowledge.

Corns are simple thickenings of the layers of the skin. Almost basis for this suspicion. For always, they are caused by

The distinction between cause of severe cirrhosis of the "hard" corns and "soft" corns is a matter of location rather Yet, there are other reasons than severity. Hard corns occur for this condition. The changes on the top of the toes. Soft corns occur between the toes. They are soft because they are constantly being moisturized by perspiration.

Neither type of corn is dangerous UNLESS one undertakes his own surgery and does physical harm to himself. Knives, scissors and razor blades can be dangerous weapons when one tries to remove one's own corns.

Poor lighting and a distorted posture makes it virtually impossible to do the safe, complete job that should be relegated to the podiatrist.

What would you bid now with each of the following five hands?

1. ♠ AK983 ♥ Q74 ◆762 ♣ J8 2. ♠ AJ7 ♥ J5 ♠ KQ9 ♣ KQJ63 3. ♠ 10 ♥ Q863 ♠ A65 ♣ AQJ84 4. ♠ AJ762 ♥ K76 ♦— ♠ KJ985 5. ♠ KJ8753 ♥9 ♦ J83 ♠ 972

1. Two hearts. The best way to show heart support, which you have, is by raising hearts. A two spade bid would by no means suggest support for hearts, and there is no reason to assume that spades would be a better trump suit. Partner did not open the bidding - he merely overcalled - and a two spade bid (not forcing) could easily lead to the wrong contract. North's overcall in the one level not a game. 2. Three notrump. Partner must have values of some sort for his bid - whether in high cards, distribution, or a combination of both. Game must be reached, whatever the nature of his values. Although three notrump appears to be the right spot, that, in misfit hands, you drop North may have other thoughts out of the picture as soon as and go on to four hearts -

You are South, both sides which your well-rounded hand can also support. The important point is that you can't bid only two notrump or three clubs, neither of which is forcing.

3. Four hearts. If North can't make ten tricks, you'd better get yourself a new partner. A possible alternative bid is three diamonds, a cuebid, to indicate slam possibilities.

4. Three diamonds. Here, also, you must get to game and conceivably a slam - and the proper way of suggesting both possibilities is by a cuebid. Furthermore, North may have a second suit to bid, in which case the cuebid might elicit that information from him and produce a more satisfactory trump suit. Of course, if North merely bids three hearts, you carry on to four hearts.

5. Pass. Here there is danger of a misfit, and the wisest thing to do is to pass. Two spades implied interest in a part score, might work out well in a given case, but all too often it would lead you into serious trouble. The misfit in hearts is already apparent, and if you were to try two spades and find North weak in that suit, the opponents might get into a doubling rhythm and collect a big fat penalty There is a very healthy rule possible. Here, that time is now.

Paid sabbaticals by profs approved

COLUMBUS. Ohio (AP) Instructors at state universities with at least seven years teaching service could take a oneyear paid sabbatical under legislation narrowly approved by the House Thursday and headed for Senate consideration.

With 50 votes needed for passage, the bill squeaked by 52-33 after extensive debate that prompted one legislatorprofessor to excuse himself from the vote for fear of a conflict of interest.

By a 68-20 vote, state representatives sent Gov. James A. Rhodes a bill that establishes a set of guidelines to protect students rights in disciplinary actions. If the governor signs the bill, pupils in most cases will be guaranteed prior notice and a hearing before they can be suspended or expelled from primary or secondary schools.

Rep. Marcus A. Roberto, D-62 Ravenna, sponsor of the paidleave bill. said the plan would improve "instruction research and community service at institutions of higher lear-

The professional leaves could be granted by trustees at stateassisted colleges and universities as part of a faculty improvement program. However, the professor or instructor applying for the sabbatical would have to submit a specific plan for his or her professional improvement during time spent away from the institution

The leave could not be granted if it forced the school to hire a full-time replacement that would be an addition to the staff. Instructors on leave could not be paid a higher salary than they receive for regular duties.

Those guidelines failed to satisfy opponents who attempted to have the legislation sent back to committee.

Asst. Minority Leader Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, said the bill would hurt the competitive position of small, private colleges. "Those institutions are not going to be able to hire, good qualified teachers or to keep

Plant manager club speaker

An official of the Calmar Division of the Diamond International Corp. was the speaker at the regular meeting of the Washington C.H. Shrine Club Thursday night.

A.H. Anderson, plant manager of the new facility in the city's industrial park, told Shrine Club members company officials had two important determining factors in selecting Washington C.H. as the site of the plant which will employ about 400 persons during full operations. The factors, according to Anderson, were "the friendly roots of the people" and "the professionalism among residents, utilities, realtors, bankers and other businessmen including Community of the Improvement Corp."

Anderson continued by saying, "Of the 150 persons who came for preliminary interviews, 74 er cent had spent most of their life in this community. It was a big factor and showed us that people like it here and are going to stay and work here.'

The Calmar Division onsidered 53 cities in 17 different states before narrowing the selection and looking at properties in five midwestern states. Washington C.H. was the smallest location under consideration, he said.

The meeting was conducted by club president Rex Bloomer and the speaker was introduced by Paul (Butch) Hughes. During the meeting, a memorial service was held for Dana Hyer, Harold (Babe) Maddux and Maurice Kelly
